

MY DREAM DAY THAT I NEVER THOUGHT WOULD HAPPEN BY TOM LONG (YEAR 6)

Today is just a normal, boring day where I go out and play with my friends, but today wasn't as boring as I thought it would be! As I wake up, I suddenly have a strange feeling something extraordinary was going to happen that would change my whole life. While you readers are reading this story, I bet you are saying to yourself 'what is going to happen to this little boy?' Well, this is a fact. I am certainly not a little boy, my name is Tom, Tom Long. Now let's get back to the main story, shall we? After that strange feeling I RAPIDLY run down the stairs, to get me deliciously tasty breakfast (I always have shredded wheat and honey).

It was about an hour ago, when I had a phone call from Liverpool Football Club saying, 'Is this Tom Long on the other end?' I whispered, 'Yes it is, why are you ringing this early in the morning?' 'We are ringing because we would like you to come and play and also train with us. Is that ok?' the man started shouting. Despite me not making sure it was ok with my mum and dad I went along and replied, 'yes, I would love to. Thank you very much.' 'Thank you Tom, we cannot wait for you to come and train on Saturday. Bye, I have to go.' Well now you readers I told you I was not a little boy, didn't I? Suddenly I dash up the stairs and scream mum and dad. They woke up. 'What the heck do you want at this time in the morning?' After all that nonsense, I calm them down and quietly said, 'Well, I just had a phone call from Liverpool Football Club saying they would like me to go and play for them.' Even though my mum and dad probably didn't believe me they still went along with what I was saying. Also they shouted that I would go to training on Saturday, at that minute I just remembered Saturday was tomorrow. 'Oh god!' I thought.

At last Saturday came, the sun was as bright as I've ever seen it before. However, I couldn't just stand there gazing at the powerfully bright sun, could I? I will answer that for you readers. NO I could not because I have training this morning so we have to hurry because it would take 2 whole hours to get there. As the boring hours passed in the car, we suddenly arrived at Anfield to train with my new highly improved team mates. While I gazed at the enormous stadium my mum remembered to tell me, you have to sprint to training or you are going to be late and that isn't terrific on your first day here, is it?' Can I ask you readers a question? Is it terrible for me to be late for training on my first day? Cautiously I wondered through that stadium like it was a maze, but at the last corner I found where I was meant to be, at the training ground. 'Thank God for that,' I thought, 'just in the nick of time!' Immediately all of the players and manager came up to me and welcomed me to the club. After all of the welcoming, Luis Suarez came up to me and started saying, 'I cannot wait for you to start supplying those crosses on the right wing.' I replied saying, 'Yes, I will thank you very much and I hope now I am on the team we will start scoring goals, goals, goals!' After that amazing conversation with one of my all-time favourite players, Brendan Rodgers came up to me and whispered, 'I will never regret what I am about to do.' 'What is that,' I whispered back. 'Well, I have brought a contract with me today and I wonder if you wanted to sign a 7 year contract with the club.' Bet you readers can guess what I'm about to do, can't you? Suddenly I grabbed a pencil and signed the contract. 'Thank you very much, Tom. Now you will be playing for the team tomorrow against our RIVALS Everton!

To be continued.....